

Group dynamic

- Divide in 6 groups
- Half of the room will discuss one question from the development perspective, the other half from the humanitarian one
- Time for discussion: 15min
- Choose one reporteur per group to explain your main recommendations and share with the audience. Feedback: 15 min

Group discussion - Introduction

- During the emergency response, humanitarian WASH actors focus first on life-saving activities. Longer-term sustainable solutions are often considered as a second priority.
- Development actors focus on long-term strategies and policies for the WASH sector with limited focus on the impacts a humanitarian crisis has over the sustainability of services.
- Humanitarian emergencies can no longer be viewed as isolated, short-term events, but manifestations of governance failures.
- A new way of working together is needed from both humanitarian and development perspectives. A conceptual shift is needed to promote complementary outcomes and converge.

Question 1

What are the key initiatives humanitarian WASH actors should consider to foster such a shift?

(examples: multiyear programming, support national and local capabilities, coordination, assessment or planning capacities, involvement of affected...)

Question 2

What are the key initiatives development WASH actors should consider to foster such a shift?

(example: risk-based programming, resilience, preparedness, sector governance, support national and local capabilities, monitoring...)

Question 1

What are the key initiatives humanitarian WASH actors should consider to foster such a shift?

Question 2

What are the key initiatives development WASH actors should consider to foster such a shift?