Community Water Boards

Community Water Board, Water and Sanitation Community Board:

Social organization that owns the potable water and sanitation system for a community, with a certain number of subscribers that operates and maintains the system without profit.

As provider is obliged to:

- 1) Guarantee the quality and continuity in the provision of services
- 2) Comply with the quality levels established in the benefit contract

Water Quality Control: Systematic and continuous monitoring of the different phases of water production and distribution, according to specific programs, to be executed by the operating agencies.

Commitment No.9

Supervision and control in the provision of water and sanitation services through citizen participation

Improve drinking water service by improving watershed management and expanding the social monitoring and control model at the local level that allows access to information and timely decision-making on the provision of water and sanitation services.

Commitment No.9

Supervision and control in the provision of water and sanitation services through citizen participation

Strengthen the Units of Supervision and Local Control (USCL), which are integrated by members of the community at the municipal level, so that within the framework of the citizen participation mechanism approved by ERSAPS, they exercise the supervision and control of the provision of services at the local level, based on a baseline of objectively measured indicators, ensuring timely decision-making and response.
